

ABSTRACT

A display system including a portable display board and method of mounting a portable display board to a mounting surface. The display system includes a rail and a portable display board removably coupled to the rail. When 5 the display board is removably coupled to the rail, at least a portion of the display board is in pressure engagement with the mounting surface.